Preparing for Musical Festival May 1-2-3

To Be Held May 1-2-3, with Ronald W. Gibson, of Winnipeg, as Adjudicator.

At the home of the secretary, Mrs. J. H. Farmer, in Blairmore, the executive and finance committees met on Monday evening in preparation for the 14th annual Crows' Nest Pass Musical Festival.

The syllabus has already been issued, and interest promises to reach a new high this year. For some years the festival has been held late in the year, but it has been moved back to nearer its original date. The last festival was held in November, 1937. Creston, Fernie and Bellevue bands are expected to enter. All Pass towns will be well represented in the vocal and instrumental classes, as well as in the orchestral competitions. W. H. Moser's orchestra, which has always given outstanding performances, will again be a feature of the evening sessions.

It was decided to issue season tickets for the nine sessions of the festival at $2.00 each, which will be transferable. The finance committee believed this would be more popular among many than the single admission tickets, as it gives the advantage of a saving of 50 per cent on the nine programs during the three days of the festival.

Those present at the meeting were G. E. Cruickshank, president; J. E. Upton, W. H. Moser, William Kerr, T. Gushul, W. G. Moffat, H. Stobbs, H. T. Halliwell, Mrs. R. Pinkney, Mrs. R. Upton and Mrs. J. H. Farmer, secretary.

Mrs. G. E. Stevens will be asked to act as secretary to the adjudicator; Mrs. Scraba as publicity representative; Mr. T. Gushul volunteered to inscribe the names of winners on the diplomas, and other appointments were made to ensure the smooth running of the festival.

Season tickets will be placed on sale at an early date. Copies of the syllabus are available at The Journal office.

Regular Meeting of Town Council

A regular meeting of the council was held on Tuesday evening, with all members present.

It was decided that, as many of the council as were able would attend the meeting in the Legion hall on Wednesday evening.

A donation of $10.00 was made to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

The bi-monthly report of the chief of police was received, and the recommendations will be acted upon.

The following accounts were ordered paid: Coleman Light & Water Co. $478.25; McGillivray Creek Coal Co. $11.50; International Coal Co. $9.30; Mothers' Allowance Dept. $40.00; Frank Barrington $25.00; Chauffeur's License $3.00; Coal Memorial Home $24.00; King's Printer $8.55; Coleman Journal $79.02; J. Salvador $27.50; Sentinel Motor $17.75; Workmen's Compensation Board $7.00; Coleman Hardware $31.35; Relief accounts $193.45; total $917.17.

Glorious Opportunity For All to See Their Majesties

A citizens meeting last evening, attended by representatives of several fraternal and other organizations, decided to engage a special train to go to Calgary for the visit of the King and Queen. Accommodation will be available for at least 400 children and 300 adults, return fare being $1.00 for children and $1.50 for adults. Questionnaires are being circulated to-day in the schools to find how many children will go. Adults wishing to go on the special should advise T. Rose at the Legion hall on Friday evening at 7 p.m., when a meeting of the general committee will be held. The train will go direct to Calgary via Macleod without stopping at intermediate points, thus shortening time of the journey.

Mayor Pattinson was chairman of the meeting, and the following organizations were represented: School trustees, Elks Lodge, Masonic Lodge, Polish Society, Slovak Benefit Society, St. John Ambulance Association, Girl Guides, Boy Scouts, Italian Society.

A dilapidated shack two doors east of Shield's Service station, which has been an eyesore for a decade, has finally been demolished.

The shack and lot was recently bought by Mike Belisky from the town and early Tuesday morning he, with several companions, started to demolish it. By mid-afternoon nothing was left of the building but heaps of firewood. Mr. Belisky will build a home there.

During the work of demolishing, wreckers came upon a tin of old paint inside a wall. In the wall was a receipt dated Oct. 1909, made out to John Boblis and signed by Harry Gate.

John Boblis is a brother of Walter Bobbitt, mayor of West Coleman. He resided in the shack a few years before it was built in 1901.

Conservation And Unemployment

Since the advent of the great depression and drought era, now nearing its tenth birthday, citizens of the west have become more conscious of the value of trees and of their importance, value and place in the economic life of the country.

During this decade of trial and tribulation, residents of the prairies have observed that while tree areas have not escaped the ravages of drought, the effects of drought have been somewhat ameliorated in areas plentifully supplied with tree growth. This is mainly due to the moisture conservation power of trees in their relation to contiguous land, partly due to their ability to prevent or halt erosion and to some extent attributable to the fact that such districts by their very nature lend themselves more readily to agricultural diversification.

As a result of these observations prairie residents have become more tree conscious than they were in the days prior to 1929 and this aroused interest is reflected in the increased attendance at lectures delivered during the annual migrations of the Dominion government's forestry and tree planting railway cars and in the keen interest which has developed in the work being done under the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act and by other organizations devoted to conservation work in various forms.

The public conscience having thus been aroused to the importance, nay the necessity of conservation of moisture, it would appear that the time has arrived when very general support would be given to any worthwhile projects which the governments of the country, both federal and provincial, might be prepared to undertake, with the dual objective of conservation of moisture through afforestation and reforestation and at least a partial solution of the unemployment problem. To the extent to which these two problems could be dealt with under a common project would heavy support be forthcoming for such a scheme or series of undertakings.

In The Right Direction

Just recently it was announced by the P.F.R.A. administration that all its newly created community pastures in Saskatchewan, totalling approximately 600,000 acres are to be created game preserves and that custodians of these areas are to be given special training in game conservation as part of a program in which the provincial government, the P.F.R.A. administration and Ducks Unlimited will co-operate.

The idea seems to be an excellent one, but it might well be further extended to include a substantial program of tree planting in those community pastures where conditions lend themselves to such a project, thus widening the moisture conservation sphere of influence to adjoining farm lands and providing work as a substitute for direct relief for many now on the relief rolls.

Such work, however, need not and should not be confined to areas set aside primarily as community pastures and game preserves. It could and should be extended to Dominion and provincial parks and wasteland areas, some of which might appropriately be developed as playgrounds and tourist resorts affording a great deal of useful and valuable work for many now idle and creating assets which would ultimately ensure some return to the country for the money thus expended. Coupled with the planting of treeless areas could well be the improvement of districts of existing natural growth.

Of Wide Value

Apart altogether from its value agriculture in the field of moisture conservation an active and well thought out forestry program as exemplified by new plantings and improvement, preservation and care of existing plantations and of natural growth, would have an intrinsic value of great importance in the industrial and economic life of the country.

This was pertinently pointed out in the brief submitted last year to the Howell Commission on Dominion-provincial relations by the Foundation of Ontario Naturalists in support of their contention that the Federal government should take over provincial natural resources or alternatively should aid the provinces in developing and conserving them, in the following words:

"The general prosperity of the Canadian people and Canadian business, no matter in what province, both as sources of taxation and conversely as possible recipients of relief, is of vital concern to the Federal government, is axiomatic.

"How important, therefore, that the Federal government should be concerned that raw materials be available for the construction and building industries, for packages, boxes, barrels, etc., of all kinds for shipping Canadian produce to home and foreign markets, to railways, telephone and telegraph companies for ties, poles and posts and rolling stock, to mines for props and other construction work, to factories for the manufacture of furniture, radios, tools, implements and the hundreds of other things too numerous to mention, for fuel and the many uses on the farm."

And again the same organization pointed out that: "There is the possibility of employing relief recipients on forest improvement work, such as the building of roads, trails, fire lines, brush disposal, improving and creating tourist camp sites and conveniences, etc., etc. There still remains a tremendous amount of such work to be done."

Then why not use some of the millions being spent on relief to do some of the work and give work to those who have none?

Tells How Peach Blossom Became Watermark For Paper

Thirteen hundred years ago, during the Tang Dynasty, a tiny Szechuanese stoneware girl committed suicide because love had passed her by. Behind her, according to the old Chinese story, she left a trail of beautiful poems, written on alms slips of peach blossom paper and addressed to her many admirers who had been attracted by her famed beauty.

The girl, Hsueh Tao, did not write poems of love, but only of encouragement, urging her admirers to seek greater knowledge or wiser methods of administration. She marked all her poems with a drop of water which spread into the form of a peach blossom. This peach blossom watermark is still carried on one of Shanghai's most popular brands of writing paper—the Hsueh Tao—which is noted for its delicate texture.

Recently, during a visit to the girl's shrine at Wang Ching Lou, where she drew the water for making flowers on the writing paper, some Chinese girls conceived the idea of writing to their husbands and sweethearts at the front on peach-blossom paper. Hundreds of the scented and water-marked messages were dispatched from Chengtu, on each of which was written a verse of encouragement.

For Air Reserve

Flying Schools Offer Their Facilities To The Dominion Government

Representatives of 11 flying schools operated on a commercial basis offered their facilities to the Dominion government to aid in setting up a reserve of air pilots for Canada.

In interviews with Col. V. I. Smart, deputy minister of transport, and Major-Gen. L. R. LaFleche, deputy minister of national defence, the flying schools delegation pointed out that many young men desired to learn to fly but were unable to afford it. They suggested the government provide some financial aid for aspiring pilots. Consideration was promised for the flying schools' suggestion of a student pilot subsidy for 10 hours dual instruction and the first 50 hours solo flying.

In 1938 the flying schools turned out 128 private pilots qualified for sportsman flying, 20 commercial pilots licensed to fly aircraft for hire, and six air engineers or aircraft and engine maintenance men. Clubs had nearly 800 students enrolled, and the 31 aircraft in use were in the air for 3,515 hours of dual control flight instruction and 5,448 hours of solo flying.

Missed His Boat

But Famous Tenor Had His Joke With Stage Manager

Scholarship, New York, tells this story of Leo Slezak, famous tenor, who sang Wagnerian roles at the Metropolitan several years ago.

One night Slezak was scheduled to sing the part of Lohengrin in Wagner's opera of that name. Lohengrin's first entrance is in a boat drawn by a swan, and Slezak was standing backstage ready for the correct cue to hop into the boat. Unfortunately, the stage hand in the wings opposite pulled too soon and the swan floated out on the stage without Lohengrin.

Quick as a wink, Slezak turned to the stage manager standing beside him and said, "Hey, conductor, where's the next swan?"

Guests Were Surprised

When Host Introduced Special Lighting As An Experiment

The dinner guests of Samuel G. Hibben, chatting merrily, walked into a Chicago hotel dining room one evening and took their places at the table. As they did so a subtle change occurred in the lighting system, and within a few minutes some guests were violently ill, others were mildly sick and all were entirely without appetite for the fine food before them.

The reason for this was that the celery on the table had turned a gaudy pink, the steaks a whitish grey, the tall glasses of milk were blood-red, and the salads were a sickly blue. What had been fresh green peas one moment had become black overcast caviare the next, and side dishes of peanuts weirdly became crimson.

Instead of the usual electric lights at the Chicago dinner, Mr. Hibben had managed to have the room illuminated by especially designed filter-lamps which cut out all the ordinary color of the spectrum except green and red. Mr. Hibben, an illumination engineer, knew that his guests would thus have their stomachs turned—and his experiment was a success. He told them, after normal lighting had been restored, that it was a demonstration of the effect of light and color, not only on the sense of sight but upon the related senses of taste, touch and smell. Color, he reminded his guests, could not only excite or stimulate a human being but also acutely than it affected the life and growth of a plant.—American Weekly.

Italian Fascist Editor Says Democracies Plan To War On Dictators

Rome.—A flat charge the great democracies are preparing to start a war shortly to destroy the totalitarian states was made Sunday by Virginio Gayda, Fascist editor who often reflects Premier Mussolini's thoughts.

"Everything proves the great democracies are moving speedily toward war," he wrote in La Voce d'Italia.

Assessing the democracies were pouring "tens of millions" (billions) into armaments, Gayda said, "every investment demands a profit, especially in capitalist regimes which are called democratic. The profit of millions spent for cannon is offensive war."

He said that, considering the "now evident aim of the united democracies to unloose an offensive shortly," Italy could only provide herself with new armaments, as she recently announced she was doing.

Great Britain's huge expenditure for her army, Gayda continued, "announces the firm intent of England to transfer herself to the continent with land forces."

He said events had confirmed his previously expressed suspicion that British Prime Minister Chamberlain's formula of "peace by negotiation" rapidly was changing to one of "peace with intimidation."

"One may be certain," he continued, "that within a few months, when war warehouses are filled, the British time will change and resound with notes less in harmony with the melodious flute of peace."

The editor said the democracies first based their arm programs on the alleged menace of the totalitarian states.

But now, he asserted, with the confidence born of their new armed strength, they were preparing to greet demands of justice and equity, which Italy or Germany might make, as "an insupportable surprise."

"Everything is prepared to present the nations which, because they have not enough, ask something from the nations which have too much, as an insupportable surprise," he wrote.

Seek Orders From Spain

British And French Industrialists Hope To Get Business

London.—British and French industrialists sought to establish contact with General Franco's Nationalist bankers and commercial agents in the hope of obtaining large orders for the rehabilitation of Spain following the Anglo-French recognition of the Nationalists.

Franco's principal commercial representatives in London were approached by almost all branches of British industry.

The British Federation of Industries, the London chamber of commerce and the institute appointed committees to study the expansion of trade with Nationalist Spain.

Royal Air Force Fighting Plane Crashes At Vancouver Port

Vancouver.—One of the Royal Canadian Air Force's new Hawker Hurricane fighting planes crashed and burned while taking off from Sea Island civil airport, but the pilot, Sgt. R. L. Davis, of No. 1 fighter squadron, Calgary, escaped from the craft and landed unharmed.

The plane, taking off toward the west, struck a Yukon Southern Airways plane on the ground, taking a wing off the transport craft, then raced forward 50 yards more, nosed into the ground and burst into flames.

The machine, recently assembled here by R.C.A.F. men from No. 1 squadron in Calgary, was one of six purchased in Great Britain for the Canadian fighting forces.

The six planes will be stationed in Calgary.

The one which crashed had been under flying test for several days.

Spectators said the pilot apparently lost control of the speedy craft as he was taxiing for a take-off. He jumped to the ground just before the Hawker collided with the transport plane.

Pilot Davis was stunned by his leap to be ground. He was led from the airfield by an officer of the

Show Large Increase

Exports To United States Higher Under New Treaty

Ottawa.—In the first month of operation of the new Canada-United States trade treaty, the Dominion's exports to the American republic totalled $36,277,000, an increase of 75 per cent. compared with $20,733,000 in January, 1938, the Dominion bureau of statistics reported.

Canada's total exports to all countries during the month at $81,046,000 was an increase of 14.1 per cent. compared with $71,021,000.

During the debate on the trade treaty in the House of Commons opposition members attributed the increase in U.S. exports to the fact many exporters held their normal December exports until January to take advantage of tariff changes.

Exports to the United Kingdom, Canada's other best customer in trade, dropped to $25,541,000 from $33,570,000 in January, 1938, a decrease of 23 per cent. Australia was Canada's third best customer in January, exports to that country totalling $3,052,881 against $3,156,183.

French Envoy To Spain

Marshal Pétain Is Old Friend Of General Franco

Paris.—Marshal Henri Pétain, 82-year-old Great War commander, was appointed French ambassador to the Spanish Nationalist government.

The 82-year-old Great War veteran's appointment was understood to be for a three-month mission to cover the closing phase of the Spanish war.

Pétain, an old acquaintance of General Franco, both in Morocco and in the French military academy, was counted on to form close contacts with the Nationalists and the military imports of the Burgos government.

His major task will be to press French demands for withdrawal of Italian troops from Spain.

Franco promptly accepted his appointment and it was expected Pétain would leave for Burgos soon with a staff.

Proposed Meeting

Premier Mussolini And Chancellor Hitler May Discuss Future Operations

Rome.—Fascist circles reported that Premier Mussolini and Chancellor Hitler might meet soon in a northern Italian city to discuss the future operation of the Rome-Berlin axis.

Significance was attached to the presence in Rome of General Wolf, Hitler's first adjutant. It was believed he might have come to arrange a meeting, which political circles said would be a logical step in view of the apparent determination to press for recognition of colonial claims.

A New Democracy

Hon. W. D. Herridge Advocates Political Reform Movement

Ottawa.—A New Democracy movement which will seek to organize a committee in every federal constituency to endorse reform candidates and rally the progressive vote in the next general election was announced here by Hon. W. D. Herridge, Ottawa lawyer and former Canadian minister to Washington.

Speaking in the Little Theatre at a meeting called by a local forum committee which has "demanded to know what I would do to get progress," Mr. Herridge said the first job of the movement will be to turn out the old political parties, Liberal and Conservative, and elect a people's parliament. "Political reform comes before economic reform. Just now our job is political reform."

At many points in Canada the New Democracy movement is already mobilizing, he continued.

There are large groups of workers, groups and combinations of groups. And they are all heading towards this definite objective: to pack the next parliament with men and women free from the political machine."

Mr. Herridge, brother-in-law of Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, former Conservative prime minister, had hinted in previous speeches that a new political movement was being launched. He is expected to follow up his announcement with an extensive speaking tour.

Declaring the Liberal and Conservative parties were on the side of reaction, he said the Canadian people will have to decide between the old parties and democracy.

"For if the old parties are left in control of parliament I believe they will unite. After the next election or perhaps before, the Liberal and Conservative parties will become one party."

Gets Biggest Stock Quota

Canada Allocated 86.2 Per Cent. For Imports In United States

Washington.—President Roosevelt, the state department announced, has signed a proclamation allocating to Canada 86.2 per cent. of the world quota for imports of cattle into the United States.

The quarterly quota of 60,000 head is allocated as follows: Canada, 51,720; all other foreign countries, 8,280.

The first quarter quota already has been exhausted. The remainder of the year beginning April 1 is allocated: Canada, 42,280 heads; all other foreign countries, 22,720.

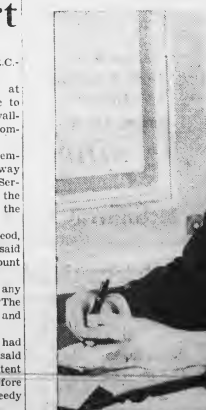

The trade agreement with Canada signed Nov. 17 of last year provided that not more than 225,000 head of cattle weighing 700 pounds or more may be imported from all countries in any calendar year at a duty of 1 1/2 cents per pound and that not more than 60,000 head may be imported in any quarter year.

Imports above these amounts are dutiable at three cents per pound. The trade agreement provided that, if Canada, following consultation with the U.S. government, requested allocation of the tariff quota for heavy cattle, the U.S. government would take the necessary steps to allocate the quota.

Britain To Enlarge Army

Makes Provision To Add 15,700 Men To Its Strength

London.—Great Britain boosted her army estimates by $250,000,000 to a new peacetime record and made provision for adding 15,700 men to its strength.

Following the unprecedented post-war naval appropriations which were announced, the government published the army's 1939-40 estimates of £161,133,000 ($755,713,000). The corresponding figure for 1938-39 was £146,590,000.

Leslie Hore-Belisha, secretary for war, in a memorandum issued with the estimates said the strength of the regular home army, exclusive of troops in India and Burma, would be increased by 15,700 to 185,700, highest for any post-war year. Britain maintains 42,500 troops in India and 1,650 in Burma.

Taking together the increase in strength and the increased money vote, it is believed the British government has envisaged the need of a wartime continental army and is preparing in advance for it.

Plans For Ottawa Visit

The King And Queen Will Make Eight Appearances In Capital

Ottawa.—The King and Queen will appear before the public eight times during their four-day stay in Ottawa, starting May 17, according to a tentative plan made public by Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

The plan include a state dinner on the evening of May 17 at Rideau Hall, residence of the governor-general; a parliamentary dinner at the Chateau Laurier hotel May 18; the Queen to lay the corner stone of the new supreme court building, May 19, after which they will visit the Senate and the House of Commons, both of which will have adjourned for the month of the royal visit. On May 20 they will attend a garden party at Rideau Hall.

U.S. Building Dirigible

Washington.—The United States navy begins a new chapter in its airship experiments by opening bids for construction of its first dirigible in more than a decade. The dirigible's length will not exceed 325 feet and the capacity will be under 1,000,000 cubic feet—less than a sixth the size of the ill-starred naval airships Akron and Macon.

Czech Farmers From Sudeten Area Coming To Settle In Canada

Ottawa.—Several hundred Sudeten German families will come to Canada this spring to settle on Canadian farms, it was announced by immigration officials. All will be families which were on farms in Czechoslovakia in the Sudeten area, before Germany took it over.

Each family will have a minimum of $1,500 provided by the Czech government from money lent it by British and French governments for dealing with the refugee situation. These farmers fled from their homes when the German armies entered the Sudeten districts because they opposed the Nazi form of government and had been connected with the Social Democratic party.

The refugees are of German descent and will come into Canada under existing immigration regulations which permits farmers from central Europe to settle in Canada if they have sufficient capital to ensure they will not be a charge on the public in setting up homes here.

They have to prove they are farmers, that they and their families are in good physical condition and that each family has at least $1,500.

Despatches from London said the refugees would be settled in the Peace River district and northern Saskatchewan.

"These refugees are delighted to have an opportunity to come to Canada," one official said. "They gave up their farms in Sudeten districts because they had opposed the agitation of Konrad Henlein which brought their neighbors under Nazi rule."

The Dominion has had the appeal of these people under consideration for three months. The appeal was backed by the League of Nations. Some of those who will come to Canada have already reached Great Britain but most of them are still in Czechoslovakia.

It is said there are some 1,200 families, who can qualify under the immigration laws, anxious to come to Canada. The government will be limited to a much smaller number, possibly to 600.

The Czech government has agreed to provide $2,000,000 which the settlers will take to Canada to establish themselves as farming communities. The money came from loans and gifts made by the British and French governments after the Munich settlement.

Vatican Elects New Pontiff, To Be Known As Pope Pius XII.

Vatican City.—Crowds in St. Peter's square rejoiced both at the election of a new pope and the choice of Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli—the first Roman elevated to that high office in more than two centuries.

A thunderous cry of joy went up when the muted voice of Eugenio Cardinal Caccia-Domenici, amplified a thousandfold through a score of loudspeakers, announced the name of the new pope. Romans thus have a Roman as pontiff and as their bishop for the first time since 1721.

They were also happy that the long tradition of an Italian pope was preserved. There had been a widespread feeling that it might be broken at this conclave.

Another reason for rejoicing among Romans was the personal popularity of the new pontiff.

The fact the papacy came to Cardinal Pacelli as a birthday gift, which the announcer disclosed soon after his selection, also captured the imagination of Italians.

The crowd before majestic St. Peter's had swelled to some 50,000 when two little puffs of white smoke came from the slender chimney above the Sistine chapel at 5:30 p.m. (9:30 a.m. M.S.T.) to announce to the world a new pontiff had been chosen.

As the news spread, streets leading to the great square became blocked with people rushing to hear the name of the new pontiff and to receive the blessing.

By this time the square was packed with a crowd of 150,000. There was sporadic singing of the Te Deum and manifestations of anxious anticipation over who had been chosen pope.

At 6 p.m., the big doors leading to the great balcony of the Basilica, swung open and a rich red-bordered tapestry bearing the papal arms hung from the balcony railing. The crowd went up a tremendous cheer.

Since the German occupation of the Sudeten areas the men and their women and children have been living under conditions of extreme hardship, with the Czech government providing refugee camps for them. It is understood a majority of the new settlers are experienced farmers. They will be chosen carefully on behalf of the Canadian government but the total is not expected to exceed 3,000.

Explosion Of Army Arsenal

Hundreds Were Killed And Injured In Japanese Disaster

Osaka, Japan.—Police announced probably 500 persons were blown to bits and burned to death and at least 200 others injured in the explosion of an army arsenal in suburban Hirakata.

The police communique said 600 homes were destroyed by the flames which swept through the suburb from exploding munitions. As a result, 5,800 persons were homeless.

The disaster, unprecedented for its type in Japan's industrial history, occurred from an undetermined cause.

Windows were broken for miles around by the force of the blasts, telephone and telegraph wires were thrown down, and railway and street car service had to be suspended.

Because of the hour of the explosion, it was believed a majority of the killed and injured were women and children.

Osaka is Japan's second largest city and is 330 miles west of Tokyo.

Equipment Returned

Czechs Have Surrendered Radium Preparations Laboratory To Germany

Berlin.—Czechoslovakia agreed to surrender to Germany a radium preparations laboratory and equipment located in Prague from Sudetenland after the territory was ceded to the reich.

In return for the laboratory, which will go back to Joachimsthal, where Europe's most important radium mine is located, Germany agreed to permit Czechoslovakia to remove certain machinery and material belonging to Czechoslovak business firms in the ceded territory.

Vatican Elects New Pontiff, To Be Known As Pope Pius XII.

Several cardinals—tiny figures to most of those far below in the square—emerged and the announcement of a new pope had been elected began at 6:08 p.m.

"We have a new pope," the announcement began.

There was a cheer and then silence as all waited for his name.

It was only necessary to say "Eugenio" to let all Romans know who it was, for no other cardinal has that first name.

A greater cheer went up and it was not until it had subsided that Cardinal Caccia was able to finish "Pacelli," and announced that he would be known as Pius XII.

He disclosed that it was Cardinal Pacelli's birthday and coincided with "Providence could not have given the church a better pope."

Cardinal Caccia then led the multitude in a great Te Deum that thundered from the square and echoed through the Bernini colonnades.

Dusk was falling fast as the new pope of Christ on earth was borne to the balcony on his portable throne. The light in the hall—shining the balcony, contrasting sharply with the dark shadows across the facade of St. Peter's, made his tiara sparkle and his white vestments gleam.

Many knelt for the blessing. Others bowed their heads and crossed themselves.

As the words of the benediction were intoned in a melodious voice over the loudspeakers some late-comers were still forcing their way into the square.

The new pontiff's appearance lasted less than five minutes. He remained on the balcony a moment or two after receiving the blessing, flourishing his hand in the sign of the cross and receiving the acclaim of the faithful below.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

A CHURCH census is being undertaken by representatives of various churches in Red Deer. They will ask in a friendly way why people do not go to church — and non-churchgoers are in the majority. Though the church may not be as entertaining as a picture show, it means more to the world at large. A man was once heard to boast that he had entered a church only once in his life; when he was married. A week later he attended the burial service of one of his children.

TOO little thought is given to the vital moral and spiritual influence of the church, for religious instruction of children is sadly neglected in most homes. A church census might be effective in bringing home to many the realization that they have long neglected their duty towards the church of which they may profess to be members, but do not contribute anything towards its support. The day comes to all when a minister will be called to read a burial service, except a man wishes to be laid away with as little ceremony and feeling as a dog. To say that you are not interested in religion, or any church, is a weak alibi. You do not have to be religious to help pay church expenses. A free church is one of the bulwarks of a democratic nation, depending entirely on voluntary support. No man can put forward any valid reason as to why he should not help some church, be the amount ever so small. Compare the amount contributed for church support in Coleman, for instance, and the amount spent in "booze," $60,000 or $70,000 for booze; possibly $4,000 for the churches might be a fair guess — for one year. An unpleasant truth!

F. G. SMYTH, columnist of the Cranbrook Courier, and pioneer journalist of the Kootenays, last year wrote a very interesting book entitled "Tales of the Kootenays." His column last week noted the fact that Vancouver Public Library ordered six copies of Hitler's book "Mein Kampf," but of Mr. Smyth's book, just two copies. It is much like a newspaper which boasts local affairs, and in return for the free publicity and donation of energy and white space, is forgotten when paid advertising or something that costs money is wanted. Expressions of gratitude are far less frequent than ingratitude.

LENGTHENING days, bright sunshine and fleecy clouds caused by the evaporation of snow on the peaks of the mountains, indicate that Spring is on the way. We cannot feel assured it is really here, for weather changes are very capricious, particularly in the mountains. Yet the welcome sight of the dome of Crows Nest Mountain seen quite clearly from The Journal office, over 9,000 feet above sea level, brings to mind the adventures of those who have climbed this mountain, which seems to stand as an inviting challenge to all who love the great open spaces and the wide spread view over mountains and valleys that is obtained from "Old Crow's" summit.

MANY legendary tales are told of the mountain. One is to the effect that a young Indian whose intended bride had been captured by a tribe other than that to which he belonged, under cover of darkness recovered her from her captors, and being hotly pursued, took refuge on the mountain. Another is that it was named as the meeting place of the crows. Still another tale based on information secured by members of the Palliser expedition about 80 years ago, is that it was the rallying point for Crow Indians in their tribal wars with their enemies. The mountain always arouses admiration among travellers as they go through the Crows Nest Pass, and it can be seen for a distance of forty miles or more. One envies the airplane pilots of Trans-Canada Airways whose route is planned at an altitude of from ten to twelve thousand feet over these mountains, for they must indeed obtain a glorious view of the majesty of this section of the Canadian Rockies.

NEARLY four years ago The Pass was promised a surfaced highway by those anxious souls who wanted to become members of the legislature. Car owners, through Boards of Trade in the Pass towns, will have to keep pounding at the highways department if they hope to get a surfaced highway while they are living. We pay, pay, pay and get nothing but dust — dust in our eyes from the highway and from the finest bunch of promisers we have ever seen.

JOHN Blackmore, Mr. Manning and a few more "echoes" of Big Brother Bill believe money shouldn't have any value. It should be debt free, interest free, in fact as free as the water and the air. Of what value would money be if millions of money tokens were circulated having no standard of value? We still have millions of German marks, as souvenirs of a crazy experiment in inflation — printing an uncontrolled supply of money tokens.

CALIFORNIA produces some wonderful schemes and schemes. There is a senator from there who is the champion booster for everything that promises people something for nothing. It matters not what it may be; the Townsend plan, the "Ham and Eggs" plan, $30 every Thursday, he takes them all in his stride and so mixed up does he become that he forgets what he is really aiming at. But he kids the people and they love to be kidded. That's why $25 a month caught on so in Alberta.

COAL production is the life of Crows Nest Pass towns. Ship by rail, thereby helping local employment. Shipping by truck is mighty poor business for people living off the coal industry. Ask the miners!

Car Accident Saturday

On Saturday night Tony Cocciolone driving eastward was forced off the highway by an unidentified car travelling westward, which was on the wrong side of the road. To avoid collision, Tony swerved his car to the right, smashing into an electric light pole near Andy Oliva's corner, the icy condition of the road making it impossible to control his car when applying the brakes. The other car never stopped. The car Tony was driving was owned by one of the Ondrus boys, of East Coleman. The front axle and a fender were badly damaged.

ORGANIZING TRAIN EXCURSION TO CALGARY

Purpose is to Enable Every School Child to See Their Majesties on May 26th

Coleman, in common with many other towns in the western provinces, is endeavoring to arouse sufficient support to arrange a special train excursion to Calgary for the visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth on May 26.

The prime object is to enable all school children to see their majesties, and the proposal will meet with support of all local organizations.

Though many will be able to go with their parents in automobiles, there will still be many who without some financial assistance will be barred from the trip.

A meeting of all interested was held last evening in the Canadian Legion club, of which a further report will be given next week, time not allowing a full report in this issue.

UNITY CANDIDATE TO OPPOSE PREMIER

Residents of the Okotoks-High River Constituency at present represented in the legislature by Premier Aberhart are completing their organization for the nomination of a Unity candidate to oppose the Social Credit nominee at the next provincial election. Members of all the political parties in the riding participated in a mass meeting held in Okotoks last Wednesday, at which the objectives of the Unity Movement were discussed. Principal speaker was James C. Mahaffy, Calgary, who presented an analysis of Alberta's position under the Social Credit government.

MRS. HOLMES' MOTHER DIED

A cablegram was received by Mrs. Robert Holmes on Monday, February 27th, informing her of her mother's death at New Connock, Ayrshire, Scotland. Deceased, whose name was Mrs. Robert Murdoch, was 85 years of age. Mrs. Holmes had not seen her in 32 years. Left to mourn her passing are two sons and two daughters in Scotland, two daughters in England, and Mrs. Holmes.

INTERESTING BIRDS

Birds resembling robins, but much prettier, with tufts of feather on their heads, were noticed last week flitting through the bushes alongside Nes Perce creek. Mrs. M. Clifford, who has been an observer of bird life in the province, both here and in the Peace River district, states they are Bohemian waxwings, and they live on berries found on trees, particularly wild rose bushes. These gay birds apparently do not remain long, which is the reason of their being named Bohemian—moving, easy-going. There is also a type similar in appearance known as cedar waxwings.

MODERNIZE YOUR HOME THIS SPRING

Many homes in Coleman need modernizing, and the outlay is well repaid in the comfort derived from the installation of up-to-date plumbing, heating plants, hardwood floors, insulated roofs, and other improvements. Consult Excel Building Supply Co. for estimates on improvements you would like to have made. It is possible to arrange payment so that it will not bear too heavily, and permanent improvements are more economical than making shift with temporary patching up. Your enquiries will be given careful attention by J. S. D'Appolonia, general manager.

The Taber Progress Edition, published by the Lethbridge Herald is a fine piece of publicity for that town, which bids fair to attain important status as an industrial centre in southern Alberta.

THE REASON FOR RENEWAL SUBSCRIPTIONS

The Journal Has Subscribers in Distant Places Who Enjoy Keeping in Touch Through Local Newspaper

Not a week passes without renewal subscriptions being received from distant points. The Journal so far has never put on a circulation contest, but instead has followed the policy of trying to make the paper as interesting as possible, in keeping with the revenue derived. Mr. J. W. Chapman, of Edmonton, writes:

"I wish to continue my subscription to the Coleman Journal. Please find enclosed postal note for two dollars."

To which we reply—Thanks! Steadily increasing paid circulation is the best proof of a paper's value to its community. It is not forced on people; they take it and pay for it of their own free will, thereby making it of unquestioned value as an advertising medium, as well as a medium of interesting local news.

McKen Hunter, for many years resident in Coleman, whose knowledge of the game of bridge is almost uncanny, writes from Calgary enclosing his renewal subscription to The Journal for another year. He has been on The Journal list for a long time, and commenced work in Coleman over thirty years ago, coming originally from Nova Scotia.

COLEMAN RETAILERS

JAMES M. ALLAN

For many years Coleman Cash Grocery has maintained a reputation for quality and service that is unexcelled in retail merchandising. Established in 1915 by the proprietor, Mr. James M. Allan, this store has earned highly favorable comment which is reflected in an increasing volume of trade throughout the years. Always a leader in the merchandising of high-class groceries, a review of The Journal files since it began publishing in 1921 confirms the fact that persistency and honest effort have at all times characterized this store.

Six years ago Mr. Allan became a member of a great co-operative purchasing concern, Associated Grocers Ltd., which has built an enviable reputation in marketing only goods of recognized standard quality, and at lowest current prices to the consumer.

In addition to his business activities, Mr. Allan has always been active in community affairs. He has been chairman of the school board, a member of the council, and has been a member of the management board of the United Church during his residence here. He is also secretary of the Sunday School since 1916.

By personal attention to the many details of serving the public, he has won the confidence of a large number of customers who for many years have made his store their shopping headquarters for groceries.

POOR WRITING IS A BUGBEAR TO BUSY EXECUTIVES

Every morning business men receive a number of letters. Those which are given immediate attention are the typewritten letters. Hand-written letters usually are difficult to read, requiring much more time than those that are typewritten. They are laid aside till a little more time can be given. To ensure legibility and prompt response, the best plan is to use a typewriter. Its use can be easily mastered. The Journal will gladly give you information on the new Portables, five models, manufactured by Remington-Rand. From $99.50 to $90.00.

Mrs. Ernest Hill, Mrs. Steve Penny and Mrs. James Glendenning are representing the local branch of the Pythian Sisters at the Grand Lodge convention being held at Calgary this week.

COLEMAN WINS BURNS' CURLING TROPHY

Invading the lair of Bellevue curlers on Sunday evening, two rinks of Coleman stalwarts curled like experts to completely subdue the Bellevue sharpshooters and bring to Coleman the Burns' Trophy, emblematic of the club championship between Coleman, Blairmore and Bellevue clubs. The local rinks were skipped by Jim Kerr and Alf Destobel. Kerr, playing against Gordon Key, broke his opponent's heart when he won a six-end early in the game, and while having his opponent groggy, took the opportunity to score fourteen points in four ends. He walked home fifteen points in front, winning 21-7. Alf Destobel, playing against Bill Duncan, had a harder game. Both took the lead on occasions, Destobel coming in with a perfect rock in the last end to lay two, winning out 8-6. Personnel of the Coleman rinks—A. Destobel, H. Claes, J. Lipovsk, B. Rypien; J. Kerr, Mister X, A. Gentile and A. Balloch.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Britain will spend £153,666,681 (about $768,333,405) on the navy in 1939 which will see the world's biggest peace-time building program under full sway.

North America is talking more of war than Great Britain. C. S. Kent, business manager of The Times of London, said in an interview at Toronto.

Native resistance is still being pressed against the Italian army in Ethiopia. Richard A. Bell, under-secretary for foreign affairs, told the British House of Commons.

There was an increase of 16,779 boy scouts in the United Kingdom and Ireland last year, compared with the number in 1937, the total being 460,234.

Canadian business conditions remained on a "relatively stable basis" with half the winter season over, it was reported by the Bank of Montreal in its monthly summary on trade.

An entire native village of 2,000 people has been transported from Java in the Dutch East Indies to the adjacent island of Sumatra because land at the former site could not maintain the population.

Sixteen persons have been banned from driving automobiles since the British Columbia government inaugurated tests for drivers in January. Inspector G. A. Hood, of the motor vehicle branch, announced.

Chief of the political administration of the Red army, I. Nadezhin, announced in the magazine "Party Construction" that Soviet Russia is planning the world's first submersible navy, capable of crushing any enemy in its own waters.

Thieves Have No Chance

Diamond Set in Floor at Cuban Capital Heavily Guarded

The $5,000 diamond set in the floor of one of the rooms of the Cuban Capitol may cause a tempting morsel to light-fingered thieves, but it is in reality heavily guarded, according to Douglas Malcolm of the American Express Travel Service.

No guards are stationed in the room itself, but beneath the diamond a hollow iron tube runs to a point where men are always on watch. Any sound made near the diamond is amplified by a microphone and would bring the guards on a run.

All distances in Cuba are measured from the diamond.

Cuts Down Human Height

Scientists Claim Warm Weather Has Pronounced Effect On Growth

Two University of Cincinnati scientists concluded that temperature may have a pronounced effect upon the growth of humans. Dr. Clarence A. Mills, professor of experimental medicine, and Dr. Laurence B. Chenoweth, professor of hygiene, reported on studies which indicate that the tide in human growth is turning and people are getting smaller again. They said their study indicated that rising world temperatures in recent years have tended to halt what seemed to be a notable increase in height and weight of college students.

New Surgical Technique

Thicker Skin Grown To Use In Grafting Over Wounds

Plastic surgeons can now lift a patch of ordinary human skin and cause it to grow thicker while waiting for transplantation to cover a wound.

This new step in healing, described in the American Journal of Surgery, makes it easier to cover bad wounds from auto accidents and burns. The thickened skin acts as filler as well as covering. It makes repairs with one layer where formerly sometimes two layers of tissue and two operations were required.

This artificially grown skin may become a half inch, or even more, in thickness. The depth of ordinary skin grafts, including the tissue under the surface, is from 1-16th to one-eighth of an inch.

To cause skin to grow to "niler" thickness, a patch is selected, longer than wide, and cut free except at the ends, which are left intact. Thus a strap of skin is formed, still fastened naturally to the body at both ends.

Next the "strap" is rolled, with the raw surface outside, in the form of a tube. This raw surface tries to heal and in so doing "granulates," forming thicker and thicker tissue. The process doubles the thickness in a few weeks.

Meanwhile the attachment of the two ends has kept the strap of skin alive and healthy. When it is thick enough, it is removed, unrolled, and laid in place, with the smooth side upmost, like ordinary skin grafts. This way of growing thicker skin is the latest step in improvements of plastic surgery that began with the Great War. The war led to invention of the skin "straps," called the pedicle tube, by Sir Harold Gillies.

He rolled the skin with the smooth side outside, however. The purpose was to be able to "detour" a patch of skin from one part of the body to another without losing the normal blood supply.

The technique of rolling the same strap inside out, so that the skin will thicken, was perfected by Maxwell Maltz, M.D., of Beth David Hospital, New York.

BEST FOR ALL-ROUND WEAR!

By Anne Adams

Gardening is not a hobby that requires a lot of expensive gadgets or other equipment. A free seed catalogue, a few packages of good seeds, a few shovels, some paper, pencil, rake and a spade are the only absolutely necessary essentials. In the average case the amount of land one's disposal is limited, but even with but a few square yards amazing results can be achieved.

Small Plots. Where space is small, it is advisable to grow a strictly vegetable garden with the central portion of the garden cleared of beds and shrubbery and devoted entirely to grass. Around the edges will be grouped beds of perennial and annual flowers, leading up to shrubs and vines along the walls or fence boundaries. This open centre adds to the effect of spaciousness, and if the rigid boundaries are softened and partially hidden so much the better.

And Larger Ones

Where the garden is larger, say over 30 feet in length, experts advocate some screening off of some portion by bringing forward the surrounding shrubbery at one point, by a hedge, wall or trees so that the whole affair will not be entirely visible from any one point. This will add further to that air of spaciousness and also provide a secluded corner or two for a swing, sandbox or a trellis-covered table.

Shrubbery

In the general plan, the taller shrubs, such as the common spirea, honey suckle, forsythia, syringa, or lilac are placed farthest back. In front go the smaller shrubs, like the barberry. In different shades of foliage, the low spirea, the douglas or similar things that never exceed four or five feet in height. In this class, too, will come many of the perennial flowers, iris, phlox, peonies, plumbago, and height and which like all perennials when once planted and established will come up every year and flower with very little further attention.

The young men who won't get married until they can support a wife do not understand no one ever gets able.

Good Farming In Denmark

By Actual Test Production Is Best In The World

As a nation the Danes are by actual test the best farmers in the world, and it does not take one long in Denmark to realize it. People of all nationalities are flocking to this tiny kingdom to learn the secrets of agrarian Denmark's success.

The actual test of good farming is, of course, the unit of production. Both for stock and crops the figure for Denmark is the highest in the world. It has to be. For the Danes live on the agricultural produce they can sell abroad. Their agriculture is an export industry. Of the aggregate farm output only one-third is sold at home.

Of Danish exports, which are larger per head than those of any European country, 85 per cent. consists of agricultural products. For many years Denmark has been the greatest supplier in the world of some of the most important foodstuffs. At present 25 per cent. of the butter, about 50 per cent. of the bacon and about 25 per cent. of the eggs sold on the international market are of Danish origin. Here, Denmark's prosperity depends upon world buying of Denmark's agricultural products.

The superiority of Danish agriculture is not due to any superior merit attaching to Danish soil. By nature the land is poor. I am no authority on soils, but I take the word of a member of the Danish agricultural council, for it. He told me, "There are not many places in the world where land is barren and yet cultivation has been brought under cultivation. Our land is now more than twice as fruitful as it was 50 years ago."

The farmer, and not his soil, is responsible for Denmark's peak place in the world of farmers—Christian Science Monitor.

Paper Bicycles

Japan Producing Machines With Main Parts Made Of Fibre

A bicycle with main parts made entirely of fibre and stiff paper materials was recently announced, says the Japan Times Weekly, as being ready for the market, and is causing a considerable sensation in the bicycle manufacturing circles. The bicycle, which is likely to revolutionize the entire bicycle manufacturing industry, is the first of its kind to be produced in any country, and involves a frame of fibre (also saddle and other minor parts) and a mudguard of stiff, hard paper material.

Although the price of the new bicycle has been placed at 60 yen (yen is about 28 cents) for the present, it is expected to be produced substantially when mass production methods become possible in its manufacture.

The "paper bicycle" has been named the "kokusaku-go" and is the direct result of a shortage of iron and steel materials which has practically killed the manufacturing end of the industry. Some six months' research was required to perfect the strange but practical and timely innovation.

Built Up Fair Fortune

Forty-three years ago, Joseph F. Wonch, then a young man, loaded his family of five young children into an old car, and drove it into the hills, where he had a small farm. He had in his pocket, set out in pursuit of his dreams and fortune.

Now, at the other end of the trail, his wife has been filed for probate in superior court, Middlesex county, Ont. It showed that when he died, either to read or write, he had built that capital of three cents and a worn-out team of horses into almost $25,000.

In the same 43 years he raised a family of 10 children and saw three other die. He will divide his $42,122 estate among his children after making a lifetime provision for his widow.

Though he acquired a considerable sum of money, Wonch never learned to write. When he drew his will in June of 1935, it had to be read to him, and for a signature he scrawled an X at the bottom of the papers.

PETER DELIVERED FROM PRISON

Golden text: Prayer was made earnestly of the church unto God for him. Acts 12:5-17. Devotional reading: Psalm 34:1-8.

Explanations And Comments

The Arrest and Imprisonment of Peter, Acts 12:1-4. Peter, James and John were three leaders among the apostles, and Herod Agrippa I, ruler of Palestine under the Romans, began his persecution of the followers of Christ by having James beheaded with a sword. Finding that this act greatly pleased the Jews, he selected Peter as his next victim and had him imprisoned. This execution after the close of the Passover, persecutions were not carried out during the Passover, and Herod was nominally a Jew and most careful in his Jewish observances. Peter was guarded in prison by four quarters of soldiers, four sets of men, one set for each watch of the night, and two were on guard outside, verse 6.

Peter's Deliverance, Acts 12:5-11. Peter was in prison, but prayer was made earnestly of the church unto God for him.

The word "earnest" means to strive, and it implies how drawn to its full length and strength. "So should our hearts be in prayer." Peter was about to bring Peter forth for execution, the Passover being over, Peter was calmly sleeping between two soldiers, with two chains. "There is the enemy plotting, there are the friends praying, and the man himself asleep." Peter was in the hands of the enemy, the friends were gathering his shut his eyes and quietly slipped to slumber, because there, loneliness who neither slumbereth nor sleepeth.

The circumstances of Peter's escape, Acts 12:12-17. The coming of the angel (the word angel means messenger), the light in the cell, the shaking of the door, the words to make haste, the falling off of the chains, the girding and putting on of sandals and outer cloak, the command to follow, the passing of the first and the second guard, the opening of the door of the prison leading into the city, the going out and passing through one gate, and the going left hand to the house of Mary, the mother of John Mark (the writer of our Second Gospel) where many of the disciples were praying for him. A maid named Rhoda answered the knock, but her amazement at the sight of Peter made her refuse to tell the friends. Peter continued knocking, and was finally admitted. He quieted the tumult of surprise and joy recounted to them the story of his escape, and then hastened away from Jerusalem to a safe place.

Silent Members

Parliamentarians Who Vary Seldom

R. J. Deachman, M.P., tells the story of J. E. A. Dubuc who has represented Chicoutimi, Quebec, in the House of Commons since 1925, yet has never made a speech there. It is not a record. The late James Pollock Brown, a Scot, represented the House of Commons for 20 years of French-Canadian, Quebec, from 1891 to 1913, and in those 22 years of continuous membership never made a speech until a month or so before his death. And the speech he then made, according to one eight inches in Hansard. Most years Mr. Brown's name is not found in the index at all. Some years he asked a question, or interpolated a remark, or rose to question of privilege. But it was not until the long-to-be-remembered night sitting of 1913 which marked the naval debate of 1913 that he attempted an address.

A new housing estate at Cambril has been built over a forgotten dump of 80 tons of shells. Nobody knew of the existence of the dump until a railwayman told the builders they were "building over a volcano."

He described how in August 1913, when the city was held up by its Germans and almost deserted by its inhabitants, he and other civilian prisoners were forced to unload the contents of an ammunition train which had been bombed by British bombers.

The builders investigated his story and found one of the shells. Sappers were called in and have already recovered 20 tons of three-inch and eight-inch gas shells. It is surprising that in digging the foundation the workmen did not strike either a detonator or a fuse.

Health LEAGUE OF CANADA presents TOPICS OF VITAL INTEREST

by DR. J. W. S. McCULLOUGH

FEWER ACCIDENTS IN 1938

From the statistical bulletin of the Metropolitan Life one learns that in the United States there was a decline of more than 10% in the aggregate of accidents of all kinds in the year just gone. The 1938 loss is the lowest since the depression years of 1932 and 1933. The figures for Canada are not at the moment available but they will probably compare favourably with those from across the line.

Motor vehicle fatalities decreased about 8,000 or from about 40,000 in 1937 to between 31,000 and 32,000 in 1938. The gain was assuredly not due to less travel by motor for there has not been an appreciable change in the amount of automobile mileage in the last two years.

From the figures piled up there seems to be little improvement in the number of persons killed in what are called home accidents in 1938. Indeed these accidents seem to be on the increase. In every year they exceed those due to motor accidents but since they are less spectacular less notice is given them.

Canada is less disturbed by cataclysms and floods than our neighbors to the south. We were spared such disasters as, for example, the hurricane and flood in the Atlantic coastal States in September and the floods in southern California during February and March which together accounted for 863 lives. Tornadoes in various places in the States cost altogether about 130 lives, while the plunging of a railroad train through a bridge in Montana was the cause of death to 42 persons.

Care on all hands would eliminate much of the loss of life through accidents. This care is required not only in every sphere of life. This is a plain fact when we consider that, as already mentioned, home accidents in each year continue to top the list.

Tracing An Inscription

Authorship of Wordwong On Peace Tower At Ottawa Is Determined
Authorship of an inscription engraved in the Memorial Chamber of the Peace Tower in the parliament buildings was determined after a seven-year search.

The inscription, the last thing a visitor sees as he leaves the chamber, reads:

"All's well, for over there among his peers

"A happy warrior sleeps."

Several persons have interested themselves in finding the author of the adaptation of Wordsworth's "Happy Warrior" and Major J. F. Cummings, of Ottawa, said it was written by J. C. Jones, now in Montreal, in Calgary, in 1919 or 1920.

When the Memorial Chamber was being planned the architect, John Pearson, read the words and made a note of them but he was unable to recall later who had written them.

In 1923 Earl Baldwin, attending the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa, became interested and parliamentary library officials began a systematic but fruitless search of anthologies, dictionaries of quotations and books of modern verse.

Major Cummings carried on the search and recently found Mr. Jones in Montreal. The author did not recall that the four verses comprising the full poem had ever been published.

The verses are somewhat disconnected and of uneven texture and do not, according to Major Cummings, reach the high standard of other of Mr. Jones' works. But the interest in the poem, he says, "lies in its connection with the inscription which for its felicity and lovely thought, is by way of becoming a classic, so widespread is the attention it has attracted."

Music Is Essential

Because Of Important Part It Has In National Life

Which is the more effective, a speech or a song? Which grips a man the more? Which haunts him most? Which may stay in his memory the longer? These questions might be, "Give us a song, ladies. Give us a song to cheer."

The directing heads of George Washington University, at the United States capital, may feel the same way about it. A despatch from Washington reports that mid-term graduates at this university went out into the world the other day with the sweet notes of Gladys Swarthout's voice ringing in their ears instead of the customary words of wisdom from a commencement orator.

The despatch adds: "President Cloyd Marvin explained the university presented the singer rather than a speaker at the exercises because of the important role that music plays in the national life."

There are precedents for song in preference to a speech. Remember, on a battle day,

"Give us a song, the soldiers cried, The outer trenches guarding?"

And then,

"Each heart recalled a different name."

But all sang Annie Laurie."

No demand for a speech on that occasion. The insistence was all on song. Sometimes everyone can join in a song where you can't cut in on a speech that way unless to heckle or look visibly distressed.

A song can be a powerful moving thing in the world. It can stay with a man down years old corridors of time, where many a speech can bore one to thoughts of homicide, self-destruction or both.—Regina Leader-Post.

Sarah Lynn came in with Duncan Van Doren and the Keaton Dams. She was an important dress which did nothing for her dark skin and she managed, even in the surging roomful, to look lost and lonely. The youth from Detroit had an air of languid intelligence and pallid good-breeding, and Keaton Dana was a solid young man with a heavily placid face. Ardine La Mot Dana made her leisurely way toward the guest of honor in a shimmering gown. Hers was a vehement, insistent beauty, a ripe loveliness; over-ripe, Sally Ann thought again, instant in dislike.

"Wonderful to meet you at last," Ardine drawled significantly, appraising her from under the heavy white lids of her long eyes. "Imagine—two Big Shots at Danavale in one night! You—and Gunnar Thorwald."

"Gunnar—not the young Norwegian flier?"

"In person. Jim Allison's bringing him. You must meet him. But he won't take you for a ride. He never flies women."

"I can, perhaps, succeed in bearing it. I've had rather more than my share of the air."

"You must come and see my house."

"I passed it to-day. Do you get in and out with a can-opener?"

"I have a zipper down the front." She nodded, indulgent, patronizing. "I'll be seeing you." She made a slow progress through the crowded room and Adelaide Dana took her place beside the traveller.

The eyes of both women were on Sarah Lynn and her suitor, and they saw Duncan Van Doren take the thin young fellow into a proprietary grasp, and the girl jerk it away.

After an instant the youth came to them, smiling.

"Mind if we go dancing?" he addressed himself confidently to Adelaide.

"Of course not, dear boy," she beamed approval on him.

"May be a bit late, you know, it we look in at the silly Stewed Prune," he told her conscientiously.

"I shan't worry, Duncan. I know Sarah Lynn is safe with you wherever—and whenever—you take her. Tell her Mother says to run along and have a happy time."

"Thanks a lot." He made his way through the long room, full to overflowing with family and friends and Chinese servants with trays of coffee and ices and little frosted cakes.

Sudden rags rose and thrived with in Sally Ann. She was motivated not so much by the desire to rescue the thin dark girl who was a flash back to her own youth as the urge to defeat the beautiful blonde mother.

"I've taken rather a fancy to your child, Cousin Adelaide," she heard herself saying. "I think I'll take her back to Europe with me if you don't mind."

"But I mind—I should mind very much indeed," Mrs. Edwin Lynn Dana said quickly. "I've very sweet of you, dear Cousin Sally Ann, but I happen to have other plans for my girl."

"I have an idea," the traveller said casually, "that you'll not have much luck in imposing your plans on that dark daughter of yours."

Sally Ann looked across the room. Duncan Van Doren had turned away to speak to someone else and Sarah Lynn stood alone. She was staring at a newcomer, utterly absorbed and free from self-consciousness, eyes wide, lips parted, startled color in her cool cheeks.

The stranger was a tall, fair youth in the clothing of a flier. He pulled off his cap and his hair was yellow above a lean and spare young face, and something in his costume, perhaps, contrasted with conventional raiment as he was framed in the open door, in the level aloofness of his scrutiny, gave him an effect of alienism.

"Who is that?" Mrs. Edwin Lynn Dana demanded, displaced. "To come here in those clothes?"

"He's merely alighting on earth for an hour, I dare say," Sally Ann supplied. "Gunnar Thorwald, who's just flown the Atlantic. I've seen him on the other side, the Norwegian Lindy," they call him. Europe's most beamish boy of the air."

CHAPTER IV.

"Like to drive around awhile?" Duncan Van Doren wanted to know, closing the door of his glistering roadster on Sarah Lynn and getting into the driver's seat.

"I'd rather drive around until it's time to go home," she said tonelessly. "You know how I loathe the Stewed Prune."

"Promised Ardine we'd barge in for a while at least. And it won't be time to go home until I'm ready to take you." He slid an arm behind her stiffened shoulders. "You matter said 'anywhere, anywhere!' It wouldn't bore you so if you'd enter into things, Sarah Lynn," he complained. "If you'd just take a couple of drinks you'd be surprised at the difference it would make."

"I don't like it."

"Well, I'm not so crazy about the stuff myself, but I've learned how it oils a party," he said reasonably.

Ardine and her cohorts had made the Stewed Prune deliberately demure with bright-colored Swiss and ruffled curtains of dotted chintz and old-fashioned furniture.

Sarah Lynn and Duncan arrived at eleven. Tables were set close to the walls and the floor cleared for dancing, and musicians set waiting, thrumming blues and torchsongs through the warm air.

"Step!" Duncan held out languid arms.

"No, please," the girl shook her head. A hand reached out and pulled her down into a vacant chair.

"Want to visit me, Sarah Lynn?"

"Oh, yes, Mary!" she answered gladly.

Mary Dana Webster was a comfortably plump and plain young matron with twin sons and a baby daughter. Sarah Lynn had never seen her here before.

"Think this wicked roof will fall on my righteousness?" She caught her cousin's thought. "Neddy has a precious customer up from the South who craves night-life and I'm here to pour them into the car and roll them home. Duncan, you run along and dance with Ardine. I never see Sarah Lynn. Ginger-ale? Well, Cousin Sally Ann's a peach, isn't she? You look like her, Sarah Lynn."

Mrs. Webster looked about her with keen, amused eyes. She wore no make-up and her hearty day-time color was a little dingy by night.

"What a madhouse! And how they toil at being devilish? Will you look at my Neddy? Biscuits and soda and bed at eight o'clock for the next week. He's dying on the vine right now, but the customer's fresh as a birdie. Duncan Van Doren danced with Ardine. There's something in the air, tonight. I feel it."

"Oh, it's always like this—or siller," Sarah Lynn sighed.

"No, but Ardine and her henchmen have been going into huddles and shirking with glee, and Doc Redley has just gone zooming into San Jose for something. You know, I think they're framing something on that nice young flier—Gunnar what's-his-name?"

"Gunnar Thorwald," the girl said quickly. "Havest you been reading about him?"

"Well, Jim Allison has him in tow here in the West; been flying with him, and that means that Ardine's had first call on him socially, but I understand he can't see her with a binocular."

Sarah Lynn lifted one thin shoulder.

"Naturally; but is she poisonous? Her first failure in a big way. You see, she tried to break his rule never to fly women, and didn't even dent it, so there'll be reprisals. She claims he's coming here tonight. Can you feature that?"

"He's in Jim Allison's hands," her young cousin defended him.

Duncan Van Doren and Ardine danced past their table, swung about and stopped beside them.

"Hello, darling!" the hostess greeted Mary Webster. "Nice to see you here! But why aren't you drinking?"

"Why aren't you eating?" the connection by marriage countered.

"Let's dance!" Duncan pulled Sarah Lynn to her feet. They danced slowly with the other slow-moving couples and in silence. As they passed a side door they saw Ardine greeting Doc Redley, a convivial young man with a side-line of medical studies.

"Well?" she demanded quickly.

"You know me," he boasted.

"Darling! In ten minutes—in the office."

Sarah Lynn wanted to return to Mary Webster but her suitor steered her to a large and noisy group and asked when she wouldn't drink.

Ardine championed her. "Let her alone! She's going to have her ginger ale or malted milk or cambric tea or anything else she wants. But that doesn't cramp your style." She poured him a lavish highball.

"Drink it down, baby, before some comedian pollutes it."

"All right, but wait—I want a sandwich first. I have my say."

The chaitaine of the Stewed Prune laid a glowing check against her. "Cousin Adelaide's been asleep for hours. Just break down and be yourself, darling. The Girl Reserve can always drive you home."

She nodded to Sarah Lynn. "I'll get you a drink myself, baby."

She went away and returned with a cold-bottle of ginger-ale and a tall glass of deep amber, and opened and poured it out herself for Sarah Lynn. A noli youth leaned over with a flask, but she fended him off. "Behave, Benjy!" She put a protective arm about the girl's thin shoulders. "Drink it down, baby, before some comedian pollutes it."

Tobacco growing in British Columbia, which began about 77 years ago, may develop into a major industry. A New Desert Hero

"Ingrams Of Arabia" Having Great Success With Tribal Leaders

A figure as romantic as the late Lawrence of Arabia has come to the fore in the desert wilds—a tall, young Briton with an engaging smile and a knack of getting things done.

"Ingrams of Arabia" they call him, and he's one of those strong, but not too silent, men who do more to increase Britain's prestige abroad than any amount of radio program propaganda.

Still under forty, W. H. Ingrams is bringing peace and prosperity to the Hadhramaut, a once-barren area where nothing flourished but murder, tribal feuds and wars.

"Ingrams of Arabia," Colonial Administrator, has altered all that. Today peace reigns.

Britain's representative called on all tribal leaders and, by using his consummate tact and persuasive powers, he induced them to sign a truce.

Since warfare has ceased to be the chief employment, 100,000 people who fled the country have returned. Now medics to Ingrams, a police force is being formed to keep order in the Hadhramaut.

Engineers are planning to sink artesian wells, and mining experts leave shortly to assess the land's mineral wealth.

A medical policy is also being drawn up.

All this has happened within four years and in a speech recently, Sir Percy Sykes, veteran administrator and soldier, praised Ingrams' achievement in concluding a truce as "the greatest act of his kind for years, if not for generations."

"Ingrams of Arabia" first visited the Hadhramaut in 1934, when he and his wife explored parts of the country never before visited by Europeans.

By wearing the robes of the country and respecting tribal customs, Ingrams soon gained the friendship and trust of the Arab chiefs.

His tact and interest in to settle tribal disputes and his rulings are accepted without question.

Since he returned to the Hadhramaut recently, after spending his leave in England, Ingrams has been appointed adviser by several Sultans.

The tall Briton receives every assistance in his work from the Colonial Office, and he has the power to call up R.A.F. planes if tribes become restive.—The People, London.

Law Sets Salaries Of Professional Soccer Players In England

Salaries made by professional soccer players in England are set by law. When a team loses a player makes $40, when the game is a tie his pay is $45, and when his side wins, it's $50. The greatest player can make no more. Once every five years a benefit game is held for a player who has been on a team that length of time and he gets $3,250. The average playing life of a man is 10 years.

His Only Medicine

Joseph S. Wells has celebrated his nineteenth birthday at Bolivar, N.Y. Wells, who asserted he had never consulted a physician, said his only medicine for years has been kerosene. He said he drinks when he feels a cold coming on. "If it feels like a hard one, I just mix it in little turpentine," he asserted, "and by morning I feel like a new man."

All fires, no matter how small, discharge quantities of dust into the atmosphere.

Drinking toast originated in the belief that the wine's flavor was heightened by a piece of toast in the glass.

A detailed description of the process that goes into making a newspaper or magazine would require several volumes.

Postmaster Graham reports that mail business is steadily increasing, now that the service has been extended to eastern Canadian cities. A letter mailed here to leave on the 2:21 train in the afternoon, will be delivered next afternoon in Montreal, and in Winnipeg the morning following its leaving Coleman. Won Championship

Juniors Win Class "B" Championship in Two-Game Series Against Bashaw

Coleman Juniors won the Class "B" Junior Championship as a result of their two-game total goals series with Bashaw on Friday and Saturday evenings. On Friday Coleman won 6-2, and on Saturday Bashaw won 4-1. Coleman thus won the series by a total goal score of 7 to Bashaw's 6, a bare one-goal margin.

To Coleman it came as an honor they never dreamed of when they organized at Christmas. To enter the playoffs required plenty of nerve and some finances. As a result of their determination and spirit to bring Coleman a provincial title, the true sports of the town got behind them with the support and financial assistance until today, with the title here, the team can show a small profit over the season's operating expenses.

Had the Alberta Hockey Association permitted, they would have probably challenged Edmonton E. A. C.'s, provincial Class "A" champions. The Association stepped in and stopped the series between E. A. C.'s and Calgary when the Capital sextet ran roughshod over the Calgarians 11-0. Edmonton is scheduled to play the B. C. winners on Saturday.

The Bashaw team is to be commended. The trip to Coleman and return was about 750 miles, and the boys were away for four days. Coleman was unable to make the trip to Bashaw, and the sponsors of the Bashaw team made arrangements with Coleman whereby the series could be played here.
